Objectives of FDP

This FDP is aimed at learning Blockchain and its applications. Blockchain is the technology behind bitcoin, ether, and most other cryptocurrencies. Bitcoin is currently the most significant application of Blockchain and in this FDP we will explore many other applications of Blockchain. This FDP will give understanding of what is going on with the state of the art work in Blockchain. Blockchain is essentially a way of keeping records and can be used in almost any product that uses some sort of record keeping or database management. Blockchain is great for protecting any data that needs to be tamper-resistant and unchangeable.
